

ACCREDITATION COURSE

EMOTIONAL INTELLIGENCE PROFILE (EIP3)

The Emotional Intelligence Profile (EIP3) is a well-established, work-focused assessment designed to support individual and organisational performance. Grounded in applied psychology and informed by modern neuroscience, EIP3 provides clear, actionable insight into how people manage themselves and their relationships at work.

Emotional intelligence (EI) refers to an individual's capacity to manage their own emotions and respond effectively to others. Organisations with high levels of EI benefit from stronger leadership, more engaged employees, improved collaboration, and a greater ability to adapt to change.

The learning experience overall was really enjoyable, the trainer was very credible, and I came away feeling very confident in my new role as an EI Practitioner.

Course Overview

This theory-based, experiential accreditation course introduces Talogy's six-factor emotional intelligence framework and provides practitioners with the knowledge and confidence to use the EIP3 assessment responsibly and effectively.

Participants develop a strong understanding of how emotional intelligence influences behaviour, performance, and development. Through practical exercises and applied learning, practitioners explore the interplay between attitudes, emotions, and behaviour, while gaining insight into their own strengths and potential development areas.

The course prepares practitioners to apply EIP3 across development, coaching, leadership, recruitment, and talent assessment contexts.
